U. K. Library Boasts Collection
Of Rare and Valuable Books

By Sara Elvove

The library of the University although unusually small, has managed to place on its shelves books of every description, type, subject and color conceivable. There has arrived lately a Portuguese grammar. The most interesting collection of books, however, are those books which, on account of their rarity and value, are separately shelved in a small bookcase located behind the desk of the librarian. On account of the value and fragility of these books, the bookcase is kept under lock and key, but the key may be obtained for the asking.

One of the interesting books to be found there is a small directory for the city of Lexington for the years 1836 and 1839. The book itself is small, much handled and time-worn, the preliminary paging of which, like present-day directories, is given over to advertising the stores and articles to be found in Lexington. At the top of the first page, there is a picture of a huge beehive, placed upon a marble bench, and surrounded by roses and shrubs. Beneath it, in great black letters, is the very appropriate slogan: "In-

Financial Drive for
Y. M. C. A. Funds
Will Be Renewed

The University Y. M. C. A. will conduct another financial canvass on March 5. Previous drives have failed to net sufficient funds to carry out the yearly budget. Funds obtained from the canvass are expended in the publication of the "K" book, financing of "Y" socials and the conducting of discussion groups.

On December 3, 1928, the "Y" held a drive which netted $613, nearly $400 short of the amount required for the carrying out of the budget adopted at the first of the year. Approximately two-thirds of the University students were not reached in the first canvass. W. L. Valade, treasurer, has expressed confidence of reaching the goal in the follow-up drive.

Members of both cabinets and others who are willing to assist in the drive will meet in the "Y" room in Alumni hall Tuesday night where light refreshments will be served to the workers.

DEBATERS MEET
BEREA TODAY

Teams Will Discuss Present
Jury System at 3 o'clock in
McVey Hall; North Carolina
Scheduled Next Week.

The University debating team will meet the Berea College debaters at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the lecture room of McVey hall to discuss the subject, "Should We Find Some Substitute for the Present Jury System?" William Dyard and James S. Porter, of the University, will take the affirmative.

At 8 o'clock this evening Sidney T. Schell and Clifford Amys, of the University, will uphold the negative of the same question in a debate with Centre College at Danville. A debate between Berea and Centre will be held later on at Berea. Dr. Bays, of Centre, will act as judge of the Kentucky-Berea debate. Dr. A. G. Wadler, of Berea, will be judge of the Kentucky-Centre, and Prof. W. R. Sutherland, of the University, judge in the Centre-Berea meets.

On March 4, 5, and 6, the Kentucky debaters will engage in a series of debates with the University of North Carolina on the subject, "Should the Government Own and Operate Hydro-Electric Power Plants in Competition with Private-Owner Utilities?" The Kentucky speakers who will discuss the negative, are Richard Weaver and Raymond Auxier. The affirmative will be upheld by J. C. Williams and E. H. Whitley, juniors at the University of North Carolina. The first debate will be held in the auditorium of the Cynthiana High school, March 4, at 7:30 p. m. The second will take place at 7:30 p. m. March 5, in the high school at Mt. Sterling, and the third will be held in Lexington, with the time and place to be announced later.

At a debate held Monday night in Stanford, Ky., between the University and Centre teams, on the subject, "Should the Present Jury System Be Abolished?" Hugh R. Jackson of the University, and Clyde Hall of Centre, took the affirmative against Clifford Amys of the University, and G. C. Smith of Centre. No decision was rendered.

'Y' Senior Cabinet
To Conduct Survey

Religious Concept of University
Students Object of
Y. M. C. A. Plan

At a meeting of the senior cabinet of the Y. M. C. A. held Tuesday night, plans were laid for the conducting of a survey of the leading students on the campus concerning their religious views.

The survey will be personal and is to be conducted with the view of obtaining the ideas of "campus leaders" upon the subject of religion and whether or not there has been any change in their conception due to college association.

Further business transacted at the cabinet meeting consisted of the election of Phil Asverus as secretary to succeed Raymond White who did not return to school this semester. It was also announced that consent had been obtained from President McVey and Miss Carrie Bean for the sale of candy in the reading room and the game room of the "Y."

English Club Will Meet in McVey Hall

The regular meeting of the English club will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in room 211, McVey hall.

As March 5 is the anniversary of the birth of Michael Angelo, the program for today will be devoted to a review of his life and works. Mrs. Lowell Robinson will present a discussion of the life history of the famous painter and poet, and Norman Neff will give an appreciation of art and his poetry. The chairman of the program committee is Mrs. Byron H. Humphrey.

Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the program.

DEAN BOYD RETURNS

Dean Paul P. Boyd returned home Tuesday morning from the University of North Carolina where he has been making a survey of the extension department.

New Leading Lady
Selected by Strollers

Ruth Bonnin, Concho, Okla.,
Chosen for Feminine Role in "Square Crooks"

Ruth Marie Bonnin, of Concho, Okla., will take the leading feminine role in the Stroller play, "Square Crooks," by James P. Judge. This important change in the cast was made last week-end at a special try-out session.

Miss Bonnin is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences, an Alpha Gamma Delta pledge, a regimental sponsor of R. O. T. C., and has been selected for two successive years as one of the most beautiful co-eds on the campus. Last year she was vice president of the class of 31 and a representative on the women's administrative council. Rehearsals are being held nightly in Patterson hall. Don Forman and his assistants are constructing the scenery at Woodland auditorium, and Strollers are working hard for the opening of the play which will be in Harlan on March 28. "Square Crooks" promises to be an outstanding success.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR FIRST OPERA
IN U. K. HISTORY

Schubert's Rosamund Will Be Presented at The Guignol
Week of April 15

LARGE CAST, SPECIAL
CHORUS ARRANGED

Lampert to Direct Production;
Sponsored by Phi
Mu Alpha and Phi Beta

For the first time in the history of the University the students and town people alike will have the opportunity to attend the presentation of a real opera. Rosamund, under the direction of Prof. C. A. Lampert, will be presented April 15. This offering is being sponsored by Phi Mu Alpha, men's honorary music fraternity, and Phi Beta, women's honorary musical and dramatic sorority. Both organizations feel that they have a rare offering in store for students.

This is the only complete opera ever written by Schubert and it contains such numbers as Ave Marie and Schubert's Serenade. Besides being claimed by critics as one of the most beautiful musical compositions today, it is full of action and romance. Part of the plot takes place during a revolution which insures action galore. The love scene of the shepherds carries the story to its climax in the popular Serenade.

Present plans call for the presentation of the opera each night for a week beginning with the initial performance on April 15 at the Guignol theater. One hundred people will be included in the cast and a special chorus of dancers will be incorporated in the opera.

A male chorus as well as a mixed chorus will perform, each dressed in costumes made especially for the opera. Solo parts will be sung by noted singers of the city. Professor Lampert hopes the community will manifest enough interest in the undertaking so that a civic opera company may be formed for the purpose of formulating musical presentations in the future.

Professor Alexander, head of the fine arts department at Yale, arranged the manuscript of the offering. It is now one of the most popular light operas presented in America.

Do not hold up the line behind you when you get to the counter. Choose quickly.

Step ahead of the line if you want nothing at the department where you are standing.

REGISTRARS TO MEET APRIL 1-6

Seventh Annual Institute to Convene at University Under Direction of Ezra L. Gillis;
Big Delegation Expected.

The seventh annual Institute for Registrars will be held at the University the week of April 1 to 6, under the direction of Ezra L. Gillis. Last year there were representatives present from 20 states, and an equally large representation is expected for the meeting this spring.

Five regular courses will be presented at the institute, each course meeting daily. They are as follows: "Principles of University and College Administration," by President Frank L. McVey; "Problems of College Organization and Administration," Prof. F. W. Reeves of the College of Education; "A Course in Elementary Statistics for Registrars," by C. C. Ross, professor of educational psychology; "The Professional Functions of the Registrar," by Ezra L. Gillis, registrar; "The Technique of the Registrar's Office," by the officer of admissions and the recorder of the University.

The first period probably will be devoted to registration and to a general meeting, when President McVey will make a short address of welcome. Fuller details of the program will be announced later.

The institute was inaugurated at the University and is held here annually. The courses include discussions of problems of administration and the work of the registrar. Former meetings have been attended by college presidents, registrars, deans, and graduate students. There is no charge for tuition, and the only expenses incurred by those in attendance are their living expenses.

If 'Cats Win Two Games, Bus Will Leave for Atlanta

Provided that the University of Kentucky quintette wins its first two games, Friday and Saturday, in the Southern Basketball Tournament at Atlanta, Ga., a pilgrimage of students will leave the Union Bus station at 2:30 o'clock by bus Sunday afternoon for Atlanta to see the semi-finals and finals to be held Monday and Tuesday nights, March 4 and 5. The party will return to Lexington Wednesday, March 6.

Miss Margaret McLaughlin, acting head of the department of journalism, is to be the official chaperone of the proposed trip.

All students desiring to go to Atlanta should get in touch at once with Larry Seaman, who is sponsoring the trip. He may be reached by phoning 4085.

The fare for the round trip will be $15. Students wishing to go are urged to make reservations early.

Hoover Inaugural
Will Be Broadcast

Students May Hear Radio
Description of Ceremonies
Monday at Dicker Hall

On Monday, March 4, a large dynamic speaker will be placed in Dicker hall to enable the students and faculty of the University to hear the broadcast of the inauguration of Herbert Hoover. The program will begin at 10 o'clock, Lexington time. A conservative estimate of the number of people throughout the United States who will listen to the inaugural services has been placed at fifty millions.

The nation-wide hookup has been so arranged that the radio audience will be able to hear more of the happenings at Washington than those gathered at the capitol itself. There will be 30 microphones arranged at various important places where all events of national interest will be broadcast to the world. In the Senate chamber the American listener will hear the senators sworn in and the speech of Vice President Curtis. The whole ceremony of administering the oath to President-elect Hoover, and the presidential inaugural address will be heard.

Two Cheer Leaders
Selected by SuKy

Two cheer leaders for next year's athletic events were chosen between halves of the Mississippi-Kentucky basketball game last Friday night. Those selected were Slade Carr, of Covington, Ky., a freshman pre-med student and pledge of Sigma Nu fraternity, and Maurice Scott, of Frankfort, a freshman in the College of Commerce and a pledge of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Members of the SuKy Circle chose the men by secret ballot after several candidates tried out for the honor during the first half of the game.

Early next year a third cheer leader will be chosen. A captain will be elected from the trio at that time, all of whom will serve during the entire year at all athletic events.

Editor of 'K' Book
Announces Rules
For Yell Contests

In order to promote greater enthusiasm and "pep" at University athletic contests, the "K" book for 1929-30 will sponsor a contest for the best yell submitted within the next three weeks. A first prize of $5 will be given and a suitable award for the second and third prizes.

All yells submitted must be received not later than Friday, March 22, and should be mailed to Morton Walker, editor of the "K" book, University box 1164. The contest has met with the hearty approval of James Hester, president of SuKy, student pep organization, as being a step in the furthering and promotion of enthusiasm among students. All students are eligible and are granted the privilege of submitting as many yells as they desire.

The yells selected as the best, as well as those receiving honorable mention, will be placed in next year's "Frosh Bible," together with the name of the ones submitting them.

ORCHESTRA WILL GIVE CONCERT

Philharmonic Organization to Give Program of Romantic
Music at 3 o'clock Sunday
Afternoon in Men's Gym.

The University Philharmonic orchestra, under the direction of Prof. C. A. Lampert, will give the fourth of a series of concerts Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Men's gymnasium.

The orchestra has appeared several times this year and has met with approval each time. It has increased in size as well as in instrumentation since last season and is now capable of playing any class of music. Many telegrams were received recently when the orchestra played over WHAS, the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times radio station, and the organization is fast becoming popular with the music intelligencia of the state.

The program Sunday will be romantic, offering music that was written during the age of romanticism. All students of the romantic movement will find a wealth of the art of that age in this music as the real characteristics of the time are better portrayed in the music than any other way.

The program is as follows:
Overture Der Freischutz.....Weber
Contra Dances.....Beethoven
Cello Solo, Andante.....Goltzman
Wesley Morgan

Andalusia.....Miramontes

(1) A Castle in Spain.

(2) Dance in the Market Place.

While Old Man Sol gaily plays hide-and-go-seek with intermittent rains and skiffs of snows and the season for the raccoon is gradually being supplanted by the season that partakes of the essence of spring, students are vexatiously concerned as to how they will be able to pass away with joy the windy month of March.

The curtain of time has been temporarily lowered upon local Wildcat activities. Baseball, track and the spring races do not start until April. With the exception of the state high school basketball tournament, which is scheduled for the Ides of March, there will be no athletic exhibitions at the University during the month.

SQUAD OF TEN MEN
TAKEN TO ATLANTA

Team Given Outside Chance
By Experts to Win Conference Title

By Wayman Thomasson

The Old South has forgot Young Stribling for the time being and today sportspom turns to the court for the opening gesture of the Southern Conference basketball tournament in Atlanta. Yesterday as the first rays of the sun gained the summit of the ancient municipal auditorium, Coach John Maurer and ten Wildcats stepped from the fast Ponce de Leon limited and lost themselves to the public until this afternoon at 2 o'clock when the Big Green Wave from Tulane washes against the Wildcat fur in the second game of the tournament. The old auditorium has housed the tournament for the last five years.

A few weeks ago the boys from New Orleans began their activities in the Mardi Gras with a 33 to 19 victory over Kentucky in one of the roughest games of the season. Dees and his fellow football players were substituted in a vain effort to stem the tide of defeat as ten husky Wildcats entered the brawl. Today the conflict will rage on a neutral court. Spectators will not crowd the sidelines and the floor will be regulation size. At Tulane the fans sat close to the court. The court was a third smaller than regulation.

Due to Coach Maurer's proposal, ten Wildcats, instead of eight, were allowed to make the trip to the tourney. Last season it was against the conference ruling for any team to take more than eight men to the tournament. Those favored were the two McGinnises, Spicer, Combs, McBrayer, Milward, Owens, Trot, Dees, and Gilb. Manager Griffin and Trainer Mann also accompanied the team.

A basketball tournament is one of the many uncertain things in this life. Last year a Kentucky team completely outclassed its first two opponents and reigned as a favorite to cop the title. Along came an unconscious pair of forwards, Phillips by name and twins by nature, from Ole Miss to throw basketballs over their heads, between their legs into the baskets from all angles, to defeat Kentucky and Auburn before winning the championship. Two years ago a Vanderbilt team lost consistently during the season and then won the tournament. Last season Auburn had as an impressive record during the season as Washington and Lee has this year. Auburn won the first three games at Atlanta by one point and then lost to Ole Miss by one point in the finals.

By "experts" Kentucky is given only an outside chance of winning the tournament. The odds are against the Mauermen winning the tournament. Local opinions naturally favor the Wildcats in their first games. Thus the consensus of opinion gives the Blue and White an excellent chance of going to the finals, but a slim chance of winning the championship. Georgia is expected to defeat Auburn in the first round and to renew her old feud with Kentucky. These teams have never failed to meet in the Southern Tournament. Kentucky has lost to the Bulldogs only once. The third game should pit Kentucky against the North Carolinians, one-time conquerors of the Wildcats by 27 to 16 on the local court.

ATHLETES, ATHLETICS AND ALUMNI

The problem of college athletics is a many sided problem and in a great many universities and colleges a rock upon which the alumni, faculty and student body split. However, at the University of Kentucky athletics have been kept in their proper place and never have threatened to supersede the primary mission of a university or college. There are, of course, a few who think that too much attention is paid to athletics. Another few think that not enough attention is paid to athletics. The large majority of Alumni, friends, faculty and student body, however, believe that athletics at the University of Kentucky are on the proper plane and are satisfied with the condition as it exists.

There is one matter, however, that has brought forth a great deal of criticism from a great number of Alumni. That is the failure of the University of Kentucky to attract the greater portion of outstanding athletes from Kentucky. Alumni accuse the University of letting these outstanding athletic lights drift into the teams of other universities and colleges. This is a condition that Alumni can only blame themselves for.

The Alumni Office and the Athletic Department of the University receive letters almost every day from interested Alumni telling of some outstanding athlete that should come to the University of Kentucky and wear the blue and white. Now the Athletic Council always is glad to have this information and in its limited way tries to influence the prospects to come to the University of Kentucky. When a particular athlete is persuaded to go to some other institution the alumnus who suggested him is loud and long in his criticism of the University and athletic authorities.

The one who should have influenced that athlete to come to the University is the alumnus in his own home town. He knows the prospect, knows his capabilities, his financial condition, and his preference as to the university or college. He knows his parents and knows best the avenue of approach that will influence that particular man to enter the University of Kentucky. In several communities in Kentucky are Alumni organizations of other universities and colleges. These organizations interest themselves in obtaining suitable athletic material for their own institutions and do all in their power to influence athletes to enroll there. Consequently while some of our interested but more or less inactive Alumni are writing criticism to the University, alumni from some other institution have made off with a prize athlete.

College athletics is a necessary part of a university or college. Successful teams are the desire of every alumnus of every institution. Kentucky so far has been behind the place she should hold. This has resulted from a shortage of athletic material. At this time each year the outstanding football, basketball, baseball or track man is considering where he shall take his higher education. For the most part they are not sure where they want to go or will go. Now is the time for Alumni of the University of Kentucky to do their part in the building of a successful football, basketball or baseball team. Expend the same amount of energy in personal appeal to the prospect that would be expended in criticizing the system here and we venture to say that there will be an increase in athletic material on the campus of the University of Kentucky next fall.

GAME PRESERVE PLANNED

Failing in efforts to reclaim 40,000 acres of waste land bequeathed to it several years ago, the University of Chicago is contemplating making the area into a vast game preserve. The land, which is covered with sage and brush is already supplied with fowls and deer, and a spring-fed river is well stocked with black bass.

Independence, Mo June 24, 1928.

Larus & Brother Co., Richmond, Va.

Dear Sirs:

Perhaps you would like to know in just a word or so how I am in partners with Edgeworth in a business way.

By profession I am a cartoonist, who you probably know is called upon to create new ideas. While this is ranked as the hardest part of the profession, I have proved it may easily be mastered, if a person will but recline in any easy chair, light a pipe, and live with imaginative persons in the aromatic smoke clouds that will soon fill the room. Edgeworth has given me more ideas than any other brand of tobacco, so I "married" my pipe to it quite a while ago. The result has been wonderful. The more you use Edgeworth, the more you crave it—not as a drug, but as a wholesome pleasure.

Complimenting the standard quality (which means more than the words signify) of Edgeworth, I am a devoted and profound user.

Yours very respectfully, James W. Bright

DO YOU WANT A DAILY PAPER?

During the past year The Kernel has carried several editorials about the probability of a daily paper for the University instead of the customary weekly. These editorials were merely written as "feelers" to see if the student body really was interested and wanted a daily paper. Most of the leading colleges through the north have dailies and the question of opening a pioneer field in college journalism in the south is put before the publications of the various southern universities. The Kernel, being one of the leading college weeklies in the south, feels that it is time to consider the steps necessary for a real college daily.

The University of North Carolina recently voted to have a daily. Students expressed their desire by polling a 5 to 1 majority in favor of the plan. After the adoption of the daily, the Tar Heel, North Carolina's weekly, had to undergo many changes and these changes will be applicable to The Kernel, if the daily is adopted here.

Numerous features might be incorporated in a daily that are utterly impossible in a weekly publication. A small percentage of national news might be carried daily to give the busy students on the campus, who fail to read the Lexington papers, an insight into the happenings of the day. An efficient and comprehensive cut service might also be incorporated in a daily with reference to the happenings in other colleges.

A daily, however, will demand far more material and more work than the weekly. The reportorial staff will probably have to be greatly enlarged and divided into two sections, with reporters in each section covering beats on alternating days. Other Linotype operators and mechanical men will have to be trained and the advertising and business departments will have to be greatly augmented.

The plan, we think, is a good one, and certainly the University of Kentucky is large enough to publish a daily paper. The Kernel serves 2,498 students and 700 alumni. Its circulation has grown to 3,200 and its welfare should be of prime importance to everyone in the University. Where the University of North Carolina has led, The Kernel might attempt to follow, but before the publication of a daily becomes a reality, a definite plan of action must be outlined.

Necessity for the enlargement of the staff will call for co-operation not only on the part of The Kernel and the Journalism department, but with every other department and college on the campus.

As a strictly student publication, the success of The Kernel in the future will depend upon the interest shown by the student body. A daily Kernel is a possibility but its realization lies in the hands of the students of the University.

KENTUCKY'S HONOR MEN

Over the hills and far away into the Southland lies the city of Atlanta, Ga., the metropolis once a year of the Southern Conference basketball teams which gather from afar to seek the coveted title of champions of the south. Nestling among the hills and plains of Dixie, Atlanta will be the cynosure of eyes and hopes this week end and the first part of next week. Out of the mists of comparative obscurity, or retaining a place in the sun, some team will surge through the finals to reach the grand climax of a season's aspiration and work.

Wednesday, ten of Kentucky's most valiant and skilled basketballers entrained for the tournament. On that train were a few fans, scarcely enough to keep the Maermer company. To the players it made little difference, for their hopes were fixed on the star of championship. They were determined to bring it home to the University.

Today, in Atlanta, with the opening whistle only a few hours distant, one may say in certainty that they are full of that same determination. Why? Surely not for personal glory or rewards, but for the honor of Kentucky and the mothering alma mater has given her sons and daughters. If they go down in defeat, let no one be heard to say that the blue and white team is not composed of Kentucky's honor men. The effort to achieve something for the University will be just as laudable as if victory had resulted.

The Kernel feels that the team will go far toward winning the championship. Certainly, it has already gone far in being selected to enter competition. The student body has given it loyal support. The Kernel urges that such support continue whether victory or defeat comes to the Cats, for the University's honor men are Kentucky's best men.

FRATERNITY INITIATIONS

Not long ago, at the University of Texas, a tragedy took place. It grew out of a bit of "horse play" that happened at a fraternity initiation and just recently in the same state, a bill was put before the legislature which dealt with the abolition of fraternities at the University of Texas. It is still pending. Think of the mortal wounds that fraternities received from that bit of "horse play."

Time has arrived at our University for the initiation of first semester pledges and The Kernel sincerely believes that fraternities on our campus will remember what resulted from "horse play" at the University of Texas.

Fraternity initiations are beautiful and solemn when not marred by "third degrees" and "rough stuff." The impression that pledges get from the initiation is everlasting. If they are being bound to a group of college men for the purpose of friendship and character building, the initiation fulfills its purpose. On the other hand, if the neophytes are impressed more by the paddling and foolish element of the institution, they may as well join a club. In the final analysis, they will be better off, for there are no dues and initiation fees to pay.

Fraternities profit as much as pledges when "rough house" initiations are abolished. The sooner fraternities forget the paddle tradition and establish a new precedent by conducting solemn initiations without "horse play" the sooner the time will come when they will get more recognition and not so much notoriety.

COLLEGE COMMENT

Co-eds of the University of Colorado in the Delta Delta Delta sorority house scurried to safety in nearly zero weather with nothing much on but pajamas, recently, when fire broke out on the third story of their dwelling. The fire department has had quite a number of applicants for membership since that fire.

A recent survey at the Armour Institute of Technology disclosed that students who earn part or all of their expenses get better grades than those who do no extra work. Those who work can devote little time to amusements and their college work takes on a definite purpose.

A freshman at North Carolina State began wandering around the campus without a freshman cap. Straightway the student court of the university sentenced the young man to appear upon the campus in female clothes for four days.

Democracy has made the country safe for the Republicans.—South Carolina Gamecock.

LITERARY SECTION

(MELVINA H. PUMPHREY, Editor)

It has always been the humble purpose of the Literary Section to encourage original writing among the student body by publishing their efforts herein. Recently, however, interest in literature and creative work seems to have lamentably declined and contributions have been few and far between. Whether this is from a lack of incentive or from bashfulness on the part of young writers it is hard to determine, but we would improve this condition, whatever its cause.

The poem published this week is by a freshman and undoubtedly shows some merit. The editor will be glad to receive the work of anyone connected with the University, whether it be poetry, essay, description, or any form of creative writing so long as it possesses some literary merit. The things contained herein each week lay no claim to being works of genius but are published because they contain evidence that their respective authors are keenly alive and possess at least some degree of high seriousness.

YOUTH

You see it as a butterfly
That flits from flower to flower
To sip the sweets;
And, having sipped them,
Passes on to something sweeter.
You see it hunt for something gay,
Not thinking of a rainy day
And caring less.
You see it as a wild thing
That would steal its very heart
And tear its soul apart.
And you laugh
If it fails—
For you are old.

I see it with its back against the wall,
Fighting for the honor you are marring;
And, having fought in vain
Against the evil-mindedness of your world,
Lay down its arms
And quit the strife.
I see it carefree in its dancing life,
Because its caring only brings your gossip.
But then again,
I see it looking
Its deep eyes filled with fear,
At the thick-veiled future
That hovers near.
I see it smile straight from its heart,
Trying hard to play its part—
For I am young.

Music, Stage and Screen

(By Thomas L. Riley)

After the apparently unlucky voyage of "Lucky Boy" Lexington theaters have what looks to be a fair week's sailing ahead of them with a mighty good all-talking picture and the best tear drainer on the market opening Sunday at the two leading cinema houses.

"Mother Machree" at Strand Sunday

When William Fox studios first went to work on "Mother Machree," which will open for a four-day run at the Strand Sunday, they had no conception of the big picture they were attempting. It turned out to be what is called a "super special" so Fox issued it under that category. And from all advance reports it is truly an outstanding production. This picture is said to have the best known title of motion picture history and it seems to us that the assertion is true. We have all heard time after time the song which is the inspiration of the picture. "Mother Machree" has a splendid cast which is headed by Belle Bennett with Neil Hamilton, Victor McLaglen, Ethel Clayton, Constance Howard and Ted McNamara sharing in the limelight. We are particularly interested in seeing Ethel Clayton again after her absence from the silver screen for a long time. John Ford, maker of "The Iron Horse" and "Three Bad Men" directed "Mother Machree" from a story by Rida Johnson Young. This picture has a tremendous power of appeal and aside from some overdone sentimentality is splendid screen entertainment.

"Wolf of Wall Street" at Kentucky Sunday

Paramount has been making some mighty good all-talking pictures of late and "The Wolf of Wall Street," which will open at the Kentucky Sunday, is no exception. The picture features George Bancroft and we are at a loss to name a more capable actor of his type on the screen today. Mr. Bancroft has appeared in a great many pictures but this is the first opportunity that we have had to hear him talk. He is supported by an excellent cast including Olga Baclanova, of "The Man Who Laughs" fame, Nancy Carroll, who we hope is not called upon for much acting as she is only good to look upon, and Paul Lukas, who gave such a perfect performance in "Three Sinners" some time ago. With this cast and a good director in the person of Rowland V. Lee to say nothing of a very dramatic story "The Wolf of Wall Street" should prove to be more than worth while.

Although the Ben All will offer a one-day bill Sunday it is worth mentioning if for no other reason than the splendid motion picture presented. "Man, Woman and Wife," a Universal picture directed by Edward Laemmle and starring Norman Kerry is the screen offering and it is really good according to information gained from advance reports. Pauline Starke, Marion Nixon and Kenneth Harlan support the star in "Man, Woman and Wife" which is said to have one of the most unique endings of any picture to date. The Seeman Players will give a special musical presentation Sunday to round out the program. Brief Reviews of Current Offerings "Alias Jimmy Valentine"—Strand—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture. A very entertaining picture that is studded with some good talking and fine performances from William Haines and the rest of the cast. "Night Club"—Kentucky—Paramount picture. Highly exploited picture of New York night life done in all talking with emphasis on the amusing side.

How Many U. of K. Students Can Get Through College on $581 Per Year?

EUGENE, Ore. — The U. S. bureau of education after a survey of 1,100 colleges and universities, fixed the average minimum at $581 a year, and the maximum—depending on the elasticity of dad's pocketbook.

In addition they discovered that the cost of higher education is twice as much as it was in 1900. The $581 a year includes everything necessary to college life—tuition, fees, books, board and room, clothing and entertainment. That, however, would mean that the student must stick strictly to the budget. For $1,005 a year the student would be allowed a little more leeway, could spend a trifle more for amusements and perhaps live in slightly better quarters.

Neither figure would permit the operation of a sporty roadster nor much night life outside of the college campus.

But any young man or young woman who sincerely desires a higher education can have it for the $581 a year.

The bureau has delved into all phases of college life and find:— Tuition in public controlled institutions for arts and sciences courses average $137 a nine-months term. Law courses cost about $50 a term extra.

Board and room averages $276 for the college year. Books and stationery cost approximately $20.

Laundry averages $36.

Amusements and entertainment average a minimum of $12. Board and room is the largest item on a student's expense account, the bureau found. The average in state schools is $276. One of the largest of state universities made a thorough study of this phase of college life and found men students paying approximately $7.12 a week for board and women students $6.89. In the same school room costs averaged $14.61 a month for men and $15.01 for women.

There is no need for a student to banish amusements from his college life, the bureau said, but he should patronize those sponsored by the school if he lacks funds.

Funkhouser Speaks To Dental Society

Occupations of Pre-Historic People in Kentucky Is Subject of Talk

The ghoulish occupation of the "bone-picker" was represented among prehistoric peoples of Kentucky, according to a description of ancient customs given by Dr. W. D. Funkhouser to the Blue Grass Dental Society at its monthly meeting at the Phoenix hotel Saturday night.

Dr. Funkhouser said that, according to this practice, which has been reported from other parts of the United States but never before discovered in Kentucky, there were in each tribe certain individuals, who with powerful fingers picked the flesh from the bodies of the dead and returned the bones to the families of the deceased for the preservation of ceremonial worship.

These bones, Dr. Funkhouser said, were eventually put in curious "bone-burials." Such burials have been found by University investigators in recent explorations in this state and are considered of much importance by archaeologists.

Other interesting talks by many prominent men through central Kentucky were given at the meeting.

DISCUSSION GROUPS MEET

"Morals, Ideas and Ideals" is the subject of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. open forum which is being held every Monday night in Patterson hall at 7:30 o'clock for a period of six weeks. The meetings have proved highly successful and have provoked much discussion. Margaret Gooch, president of the Y. W. C. A., will preside at the meeting this Monday.

One way to trap a beaver

Not everybody in the Hudson's Bay Company is a trapper, any more than everybody in the Bell System is a telephone engineer.

The Hudson's Bay people trapped a good many beavers in the company offices, where the skillful financing and careful business management served to back up the men actually on the front lines. Organized activity succeeded then just as it does today. The men who put up telephone lines can work the better because back of them are other men who painstakingly design and make their equipment, and still other men who correlate all these activities into a smoothly meshing plan.

Although I am of the opinion that ye editor-in-chief of this "rah-rah" publication will censor this paragraph as being libelous, slanderous and defamatory, I am, nevertheless, determined to run the gamut of his wrath and face a storm of penitence on the sea of journalism in order that I may acquaint you with that ensemble of fraternal co-eds known as Alpha Gamma Deltas.

High School Grads Are Not Always Fit For College Course

"A high school diploma does not necessarily indicate that the graduate is ready for college training," says Dr. Guy E. Snavey, president of Birmingham-Southern College.

"Whatever his high school diploma may infer, a young American of the Twentieth Century aiming at future American leadership, but merely drifting toward manhood, is not yet prepared for college training," he said.

"If unwise faculties allow such lifeless pebbles to be dropped into the college machinery, it is any wonder that the educational movement of the institution slows up or stops entirely, and that hard study is not rated on the campus as a 'student activity'?" the educator asked.

"If you are afraid of unpopularity, if you are zealously loyal to every local tradition, and gladly accept the opinions of the 'gang,' then rest assured you are now training yourself to obey some boss, to play second fiddle in life's concert, and to remain a helpless victim of your environment," the president said.

"If you can't see any use in learning a dead language, and hence dodge Latin; if you despise math and hence quit studying it; if you are so wrapped up in athletics or some other activity that you 'can't find time for the lab-work some cranky professor insists on'—in other words, if you have started up the long and rugged hill of American leadership in this age of brains and have no control of your own brain power, you had better quit wasting your time and money at school."

Education as a preparation of future success cannot be measured by examinations or grades, or even diplomas, Dr. Snavey pointed out. It is measured by ability to initiate, control, increase and direct individual mental energy, he further stated.

Dr. Tyron Speaks At Engineering Assembly Tuesday

Dr. J. L. Tyron, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, spoke before the Engineering Assembly in Dicker hall Tuesday morning on "The Training of Engineers."

Dr. Tyron is a graduate of Harvard and is professor of International law at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Boston. He is at present on a tour of the United States as an admission agent for Massachusetts Tech. During the course of his talk Dr. Tyron described 17 courses in engineering offered by Massachusetts Tech, and he laid special stress on the opportunity for the post-graduate work at Massachusetts Tech.

He emphasized the demand for trained engineers, a demand which the technical schools of America cannot and are not supplying.

Major Meredith was introduced to the students during the convocation, and Dean Anderson presided over the assembly.

NEW DISCOVERIES MAKE BRAIN LIVE

Soviet Doctors Keep Severed
Head of Dog Alive for Several Hours by Aid of Artificial Heart.

MOSCOW.—Sober and intensive study of Soviet scientists of the fascinating, yet terrifying problem of life and death at last is producing some remarkable results at the Moscow Chemical-Pharmaceutical Institute.

In the middle ages alchemists spent their lives in a vain effort to create artificial life. The history of physiology is replete with experiments in attempts to revive dead animals and persons. Today, in Moscow, probably the most remarkable experiments of this nature are being carried out.

Dr. B. S. Brukhanenko and Dr. S. L. Chechulin are in charge of the experiments. They have succeeded in creating an "artificial heart" which has kept the detached head of a dog alive, in so far as action and sensitiveness are concerned, for as long as three and one-half hours. The potentialities of an artificial heart in the sphere of practical surgery are unlimited, the scientists believe. It was pointed out that if an apparatus can be perfected which would keep a patient alive for even a few minutes by means of mechanical blood circulation, an operation could be performed to make necessary surgical repairs on the heart.

The experiments have shown that the body of an animal lives for at least three minutes after the heart stops beating. If the blood can be kept from coagulating by chemical methods, he continued, there is the possibility that the animal may be revived. This is the theoretical basis of the experiment. The process of death, according to the experiments, is active rather than passive; that is, it is a continuous process in which different cells and tissues cling to life longer than others. In testing this active process, the scientists point out that the fact that a dog's head has been kept in a state of life after severing it from the body, proves that the brain retained life after the heart was "dead" and only needed to be fed blood and air again to "awake."

The records of the institute show in detail how the artificial heart worked when attached to the severed head of the dog. The experiment has been repeated several times before such scientists as Professor Furskoff, of the Brain Institute. The results have been reported in detail to the all-union congress of physiologists and have been published in scientific magazines here and in the Journal of Physiology in Paris.

This experiment, however, is considered as only the small beginning of the work, which aims to reveal the laws of death. Dr. Brukhanenko conducted your correspondent to the laboratory and demonstrated the apparatus. The artificial heart is a prosaic looking affair of glass, rubber and metal attached to a dynamo. Its very simplicity is impressive to the layman. Dr. Brukhanenko poured water into the central glass reservoir and turned on the current. Soon the heart was visibly "beating" and the water was pumped into one set of glass "arteries" passed through a "breathing apparatus" where it absorbed oxygen and completed the circuit, being pumped back into the reservoir through another set of "arteries." The entire action is automatic.

Of course, in the actual experiments real blood is used instead of water and the two sets of "arteries" are joined to corresponding real arteries in the severed neck of the dog.

Dr. Brukhanenko showed the correspondent detailed records of several experiments, every moment having been recorded. He also showed photographs of the subjects of the experiment during the "revival."

Funkhouser Speaks Before Kiwanis Club

Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, dean of the graduate school at the University, spoke before the Kiwanis club in the Lafayette hotel Tuesday. He confined most of his address to personal items of a humorous nature that occur on such a trip as he and Professor Webb, also of the University, take annually.

The serious side of the address was relative to hominy holes, common in Kentucky, but rare in most states and foreign countries. These holes were used by Indians to grind corn and Dr. Funkhouser and Professor Webb have made an extensive study of the subject.

Doctor McVey Will Speak at Nebraska

President Accepts Invitation to Make Commencement
Address in June

Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University, will give the commencement address to the University of Nebraska graduating class of 1929 at the exercises to be held on June 8.

Dr. McVey has been president of the University since 1917. He received the degree of bachelor of arts from Ohio Wesleyan in 1893, and the degree of doctor of philosophy from Yale in 1895. He also holds honorary degrees of doctor of laws from Ohio Wesleyan and the University of Alabama.

President McVey was an editorial writer in New York during the year of 1895, after which he taught history for a year at Columbia Teachers College. He then went to the University of Minnesota where he remained as professor of economics until 1907. In 1908 and 1909 he served as chairman of the Minnesota Tax Commission, after which he accepted the presidency of the University of North Dakota, the last position he held before coming to the University.

TWO DEBATES ARE HELD

The Georgetown debating teams, opening their 1929 season, broke even with teams representing Kentucky Wesleyan College last Tuesday night. Childs and Walker, Georgetown's affirmative team, gained a two to one decision on the home floor, while Leah and Cundiff, arguing for the Tigers on the negative side, dropped the decision by the same count. The issue this year is: "Resolved, that the United States should adopt a substitute for the present jury system."

Roberts Speaks in Western Kentucky

Prof. George Roberts, head of the agronomy department of the University experiment station, discussed soil improvement and pasture production at a series of meetings held recently in Henderson, Union, Fulton, Graves, Marshall, and McCracken counties.

According to Professor Roberts' reports, there is an unusual interest in livestock, especially dairying, which calls for the growing of more feed on the farm. He advised the use of limestone and fertilizers, wherever possible, and the liberal seeding of pasture mixtures, including sweet clover and lespedeza in the grass mixtures for limed land and lespedeza in mixtures for the unlimed land.

Following his addresses, Professor Roberts devoted much time to answering questions asked at the meeting.

Wildcats Enter Tourney With Imposing Record

With the conclusion of the regular basketball season, Kentucky enters a well-rounded team in the Southern Conference tournament this afternoon with a record of seven victories out of 11 conference games.

The Wildcats opened the season with two non-conference tilts, defeating Eastern Normal, 39-10, and Miami University, 43-42. The team was just beginning to round into shape and had not, as yet, discovered their ability to maintain the air-tight defense which they developed as the season progressed to the sorrow, especially, of Washington and Lee.

Playing the double role of host and rival to North Carolina on January 4, Kentucky suffered a defeat at the hands of the Tar Heels and revealed some of the weak points of the team in this first conference game. The game evidently caused a strengthening of the defensive tactics of the Wildcats for they came back with a close guarding defense at South Bend on January 12, that kept the Notre Dame squad helpless and forced upon them the stingy end of 19-16 score.

Meeting Georgia Tech, one of the strongest contenders in the south, at Atlanta, January 16, Kentucky played an aggressive game and the score board registered a 10-10 tie at the half. However, on returning to the floor at the second period they met with a bewildering short passing attack that might have been the result of the engineers' slide rules during the 15 minutes rest. At any rate, Tech broke away from the tie and left the Wildcats with the short end of a 33-19 score.

Playing two games with Tennessee on January 17 and 19, Kentucky cornered two victories for the score of 35-29 and 27-23. Spicer demonstrated his eye for the hoop in these tilts, making 23 points for his team to emerge high point man. The following week, Alabama invaded the local court to defeat the Wildcats 27-26.

Then came the southern trip. The Mississippi A. and M. aggregation were overcome in two games. The first game required an overtime period to break a 23-23 tie. To Milward goes the honor of having scored the final shot which gave his team a two-point edge over the Aggies. From Jackson to New Orleans and a 34-22 defeat by Tulane was the next move of the Felines.

In a gymnasium filled to capacity on February 8, Kentucky forced the Washington and Lee Generals to surrender in one of the most exciting games that local fans have ever witnessed. Though defeated, 31-30, the Generals left the impression they always leave on their opponents—that of having met a team of genuine sportsmen.

To further prove that "Old Centre ain't what she used to be," Kentucky spelled defeat to the Colonel lettered quintet, February 13, by a 47-11 rush. Then they finished the season in glorious form by sending Mississippi back to the levees with two losses sustained by the score of 35-30 and 32-24.

Kentucky can enter the tournament this year with logical hopes of the very best results. She has won 11 of her 15 games, has scored 429 points to her opponents 376, has defeated some of the best teams that the South can present, and has perfected a type of basketball that might win over any team in the country. The tournament will show the results.

THE HONOR MAN

THE TOURNAMENT SOUNDING BOARD

Kentucky plays Tulane at 2 p. m. in the second game; Maryland and Ole Miss open the tournament. All games the first day will be played exactly on the hour. The teams will have to take the floor for practice between halves of the preceding game and no time will be allowed them before the game. Washington and Lee is favored to cop the title. The Generals have won seven games and lost only to Kentucky in the Conference. They have played only two other outstanding teams, Georgia and West Virginia, defeating the first by 20 points, and the latter by five points. The four teams which finished first in the conference were "seeded." W. and L. and Tech in the upper bracket, North Carolina and Georgia in the lower bracket. Kentucky is in the lower bracket and can not meet Washington and Lee until the finals, if at all. Alabama, North Carolina, Mississippi A. and M., or Georgia will oppose Kentucky if the Wildcats win the Tulane tilt.

TOURNAMENT FOR LEXINGTON IN 1930

The S. C. tournament is not under the auspices of Tech or any other conference school. It is managed by the Atlanta Athletic Club for profit. The same referees are maintained from year to year. Frank Lane, our model referee, was suggested but not hired. Officiating is considered generally to be poor. Why not have the tournament at Lexington in 1930? The Bluegrass supports basketball. Last season hundreds were turned away from the finals of the high school tournament as a capacity crowd howled in delirium over the close contest. A college tournament would create even more interest. Kentucky has prospects for an outstanding team next season. Talk up the tournament for Lexington in 1930.

IN 1921 KENTUCKY won the Southern Tournament. Kentucky played Tulane in the first game.

THE WILDCATS DEFEATED Georgia by one point for the championship.

IN 1925 GEORGIA eliminated Kentucky from the tournament. Kentucky will meet Georgia in the second game if both teams win the first day.

PAUL JENKINS MADE All-Southern in 1925 and Gayle Mohnney lacked only one vote making the team although Kentucky was eliminated in the semi-finals.

THAT WAS ONE of the best teams Kentucky ever had—Mohnney, McFarland, Underwood, Alberts, Carey, Jenkins.

EVERY MAN ON THAT TEAM has since married. Athletes must be in demand.

COACH JOHN MAUER has one iron-clad rule which he enforces at Atlanta. None of his players are allowed to catch sight of a newspaper. No player even knows how many points he makes unless he counts them during the game.

EGGS AND TOAST are the bill of fare. Mentioning soft-boiled eggs to an athlete has caused the murder of many well-meaning waiters.

NONE OF THE PLAYERS are allowed to see anyone while the tournament is in progress. If the team wins the first two games, Sunday is always a day of rest on which basketball is not allowed to be mentioned. A show and sight-seeing tour are included in the day's routine.

FROSH ACHIEVE CHAMPIONSHIP

State Title Is Gained by Kittens With Second Victory Over Eastern Yearlings at Richmond Tuesday.

Members of the Kittens basketball team returned to Lexington Tuesday night with the scalp of Eastern Teachers' College frosh and the collegiate freshman basketball championship of the state. The score of the game was 28 to 11 and was only the second defeat in thirteen games for Eastern. The Kittens inflicted both humiliations.

Yates had an uncanny eye for the basket and scored 10 points. The Kentucky Frosh were easily superior in goal shooting while Eastern played on even terms in floorwork. Three regulars on the Eastern team were former members of the famous Car Creek quintet.

During the first period Eastern caged only one field goal. The score at the end of the half was 10 to 2. Eastern caged only one free toss in 12 efforts, while Kentucky failed in all of their six attempts.

'Cats Win Two From Ole Miss

Southern Champs Fall Twice Before Kentucky in Rough Contests

The University of Kentucky Wildcats proved stumbling blocks for the present southern champions and scored a double victory over Ole Miss on Friday and Saturday nights of last week. The margin of the first game was 35-30, but Kentucky's defense tightened on the next night and the Mississippians were held to 24 points while the Wildcats were counting 32. Flem D. Sampson, governor of Kentucky, was a spectator at the first game.

Play during both contests was exceedingly rough, 47 fouls being called. Of these a number were technicals called against Kentucky because of the unsportsmanlike attitude of the Wildcat rosters. Three double fouls were called in the second game but none of the players involved were able to connect with the hoop.

Milward was high-point man for Kentucky with nine points in the first game, while Combs duplicated this performance on the second night. Cary Phillips lived up to advance press notices in the initial scrap, scoring 10 points, but he was held scoreless in the fray on Saturday while Selby scored eight markers.

BASKETBALL

The second week of the 1929 intra-mural basketball scramble passes into history tonight with five games on the schedule. Since the varsity has completed its regular games and the frosh closed their season in Richmond Tuesday, the gym has been available every night for the inter-fraternity contests during the past week. The program this evening will open at 8:45 o'clock with the following card:

Friday Games

Delta Tau Delta vs. Alpha Gamma Rho.
Pi Kappa Alpha vs. Phi Kappa Tau.
Triangle vs. Alpha Gamma Epsilon.

Sigma Beta Xi vs. Sigma Nu.
Maxwell Presbyterian vs. Calvary Baptist.

Monday's Games

Delta Tau Delta vs. Phi Sigma Kappa.
Sigma Nu vs. Phi Delta Theta.
Sigma Beta Xi vs. Phi Kappa Tau.

First Methodist vs. Broadway Christian.
Catholics vs. Men's Dorm.

At the present stage of the race, all of the teams seem evenly matched. Most of the games are fast and have been won by narrow margins. Practically the only hindrance to the tourney has been the difficulty in securing referees for the various contests. M. E. Potter, intra-mural director, and his managers send out word that any persons desirous of developing dominating personalities will be welcomed as officials for the nightly games of this league.

Results of games played the first part of this week follow:

Monday

Sigma Nu, 25; Phi Kappa Tau, 22.
S. A. E., 24; Delta Chi, 13.
Delta Tau Delta, 20; A. T. O., 13.
Kappa Sig., 22; Sigma Beta Xi, 15.
Tuesday
A. T. O., 16; Alpha Gamma Rho, 13.
Alpha Sig., 23; Phi Sig., 18.
Kappa Sig., 36; Phi Taus, 9.
Delta Chi, 26; A. G. E., 13.
Calvary Baptist, 16; First Methodist, 14.

TRACK AND TENNIS

Mr. Potter also announced that the annual spring track meet sponsored by the intra-mural department would immediately precede the spring vacation. The date, to be definitely decided later, will be about March 26 or 27. The spring tennis tourney, also a big drawing card, will begin as soon as weather permits the courts to be used.

HIGH SCHOOLS TO HOLD MEET HERE

State Net Tournament Dates Set for March 14, 15, 16; District Meets Being Held This Week.

The eleventh annual State High School basketball tournament will be held in Lexington March 14, 15, and 16, under the auspices of the University of Kentucky, according to S. A. "Daddy" Boles, athletic director.

There will be two classes, A and B, with eight girls and boys teams in each, making a total of 32 teams that will be here to compete for the state title in their respective divisions. The directors have already started work on the plans of getting everything ready for the tournament. Arrangements are being made to insure the visiting teams of comfort and convenience during their stay in Lexington. The expenses of each team will be paid by the University as long as the team remains in the tournament, but after a team loses one game they will have to pay their own expenses if they wish to remain.

Capable officials have been secured to officiate in all games, insuring fast and clean contests during the tournament. The five men who will handle the games are Frank Lane, Travnick, Bill Hansen, Bart Peak, and Head, all of whom are dependable officials and know the game.

The railroads have offered reduced rates to Lexington from all parts of the state and will put their tickets on sale two days before the opening day. These will be good until the following Monday, or the 18th of the month. Many persons always take advantage of this opportunity. This year is going to be an exceptional one in the class of basketball that will be played. It is expected that the trains will bring many visitors to the city for the tournament.

There will be twelve games played on the first day, starting at 8 o'clock in the morning and lasting until 9 o'clock that night. This will offer fans quite a few good games for the first day and will really be worth the price of admission. "Daddy" Boles is getting the gymnasium ready to accommodate a large crowd and to afford everyone a seat so that they can see without being crowded.

There will be some real good teams seen in action, teams that will come here with an enviable record, although after the next two weeks in which the district and regional tournaments will be held, some of the present favorites may slip and be eliminated. Some of the logical teams which will more than likely be here and have displayed championship class at times this season are Ashland, state champs and national champs last year; Georgetown, Danville, Lexington, Covington, Central City, St. Xavier, and Louisville Male.

Yates Is Star in Lee College Defeat

Yates, sterling forward, played a brilliant part in the 32 to 23 defeat which the Kentucky frosh handed to the quintette of Lee's College in Jackson last Friday night. The Big Green forward ran wild through the mountaineers' defense and scored 17 points.

Kentucky opened the scoring and gradually accumulated a lead that put them out of danger long before the end of the game. Strong, center for the Jackson team, made 12 points and was the individual star of the Lee squad.

The line-ups:
Kittens (32) Pos. Lee (23)
Kendall (5) ... F. ... Kash
Yates (17) ... F. ... Turner
Phillips (3) ... C. ... (12) Strong

Substitutions: Kittens — Kleiser

Coach Potter Has Good Year With Freshmen

By Vernon Rooks

The Kentucky Kittens with the state freshmen championship crown safely tucked away in their locker, have stored their green B. V. D.'s in a most successful season. Engaging in eleven contests, the Big Green carried away laurels of victory in all save one, totaling 297 points to their opponents 220.

Harvey Kendall was elected to the office of honorary captain at a meeting of the squad on Wednesday afternoon. A different leader was selected by the coach, M. E. Potter, before every game and the choosing of a regular captain was postponed until the end of the season. Kendall, who was out of many of the earlier games with an injured ankle, was the most consistent scoring forward on the team.

The freshmen of Kentucky Wesleyan College were unusually unfortunate in their encounters with the Big Green team this season, losing both games with less than three minutes to play. In the initial game on the Kentucky floor, January 12, the Kentucky freshmen managed to play a sorry second fiddle until the last few minutes of the game when the ball seemed to crave the Kentucky basket and the Kittens victory was 32 to 23.

After trailing the Panther Cubs for more than three quarters during the second game at Winchester, February 16, the Kentucky frosh uncorked a last-minute rally and defeated the Wesleyan freshmen 31 to 26. Eleven minutes passed at the opening of the game before Kentucky located the basket. Wesleyan led by one point with three minutes to go, but two field goals by Yates and one by Little put the game on ice for the Kittens.

Classed as the underdogs in a match with the freshmen of Eastern Teachers' College, the Kentucky yearlings managed to come out on top of a 15 to 14 score in the Kentucky gymnasium, January 18. The Eastern lineup contained the names of three former Carr Creek players. Roberts led Kentucky with six points.

Kentucky won a double-header from the basketball teams of Goldberg Tailors in the Kentucky gymnasium on January 23. The first and second yearling teams won by a score of 37 to 27 and 23 to 20, respectively.

The Georgetown freshmen were lucky to hold Kentucky to a 20 to 18 count in a game at Georgetown, February 1. With three regulars absent and a makeshift lineup, Coach Potter tried several combinations against the lighter orange and black squad. Kentucky took the lead in the last minute of play when Kendall slipped in for a neat basket.

The Kittens came from behind to wallop the Georgetown Cubs for the second time, on February 20, by a score of 32 to 23. Georgetown led at the half, 13 to 12, but the Kittens offense, led by Roberts who scored 10 points, began to function in the second half and piled up a lead which Georgetown was unable to reach. Lancaster made 12 points for Georgetown.

The record of the Big Green team received its only splootch when Botts, forward of the University of Louisville freshmen, sank a field goal in the last minute of play in a game between the two teams in Lexington, February 5. The final score was 20 to 18. Kentucky led 17 to 15 near the end of the game but was unable to stop the progress of Botts who piled up 11 points.

A 26 to 15 victory over Kavanaugh High school gave the Kittens little comfort from the taste of defeat handed them by Louisville. Kentucky annexed a lead in the first half, while Kavanaugh eased up an inferiority complex. In the second period the high school boys forgot their stage fright and outscored the Big Green team by one point. Kentucky was somewhat relieved when they handed Wesleyan a 31 to 26 defeat after Wesleyan beat Louisville.

Coach Potter used 11 freshmen in winning over the Lexington Blue

Devils by a score of 26 to 20 in the Men's gymnasium on the night of February 18. The Kittens took a comfortable lead in the first period and were never headed. Little played the best game of the season and marked up eight points. Yates, rated as the best freshman center in Kentucky, went on a scoring rampage at Jackson, February 22, and the Kentucky frosh beat the Lee's College quintet 32 to 23. Yates was responsible for 17 points. The Kittens were first to score and gradually widened their margin of victory.

Finishing their season in grand style, the Kittens gave Eastern freshmen the worst drubbing administered by any team on the schedule of the former Creekmen.

The final count of this game, played on Tuesday, February 26, at Richmond, was 28 to 11.

The members of the Kittens squad during the past season were Cecil Bell, Graham Benson, James Bradley, John Drury, Bruce Farquhar, Harvey Kendall, Kenneth Kistner, William Kleiser, Errol Little, Clarence Phillips, George Roberts, Harry Smoot, Maurice Scott, John Thorn, William Townsend, James Winn, and George Yates.

R. S. Thorpe & Sons at Main and Mill streets is the official store from whom you should get your Freshman Caps.

Each year an Official Committee, composed of members from your college, is called for the purpose of selecting a store to furnish the Freshman Caps and our store was awarded the contract for the season 1928-1929.

The fact has developed lately that another clothing store in this city has been selling freshman caps to the students at the University of Kentucky during this season, which is strictly against the intention of the Committee who awarded the contract. And in addition to this, the cap which they have been selling is not a regulation style as selected by the Executive Committee.

DR. VANDENBOSCH WINS FELLOWSHIP

Political Science Professor to Travel Around Globe in Study of Dutch Colonial Policy.

A traveling fellowship valued at $4,000, has been awarded to Dr. Amry Vandenbosch, professor of political science, by the Social Science Research Council, of New York City. Dr. Vandenbosch will make a detailed study of the Dutch colonial policy and administration as well as extensive investigations into governmental policies of other European nations.

An application for a year's leave of absence has been filed by Dr. Vandenbosch. If it is granted by the board of trustees, he will leave the United States next August for Geneva, Switzerland, where he will attend the opening of the League of Nations. Immediately thereafter he will go to Holland where he will remain for two months carrying on an extensive investigation of governmental affairs in that country. The following month he will go to London to study the British colonial office.

The remaining portion of his itinerary will include a trip through France to Italy, from which country he will take a boat for the Dutch East Indies, arriving there about the first of January, 1930. Education, labor, governmental institutions, finance, civil service, land, and commerce of the Dutch colony will come under the scrutiny of the political scientist. His next stops, in British India and the Philippines, will enable him to compare the Dutch colonial policy with that of other great nations. His return to this country will be via Russia, China and Japan. Mrs. Vandenbosch also will go on the tour.

Dr. Vandenbosch came to the University three years ago from Iowa State University, taking the position of assistant professor, later being promoted to associate professor, and later, last year, to full professorship. He received M. A. and Ph. D. degrees from the Chicago University.

Bible Class Hears Prof. J. Cotton Noe

Kentucky Poet Laureate Recites Original Poem in Emphasizing Subject

Prof. J. Cotton Noe, of the College of Education, was the speaker before the Bible class of the Y. M. C. A. Monday night, his subject being "The Finding and Losing of Life." He stated that all real success and happiness in life may be attributed to the discovery of the laws of life and conforming to them.

Professor Noe emphasized that "the surest way to miss happiness, which ought to be the aim of every life, is to seek happiness directly, while the surest way to find this desirable experience is to discover how we can be the most useful to humanity and then lose ourselves in that enterprise." He stated that happiness grows out of the love of the thing that we are doing and the law of sacrifice for the sake of achieving a worthwhile objective was recommended to all who took life seriously.

In closing Professor Noe recited "Wagoner Joe," a poem of his own composition, which showed how a modest man found a great secret in happiness in doing thoroughly each day's work, and a work beneficial to others.

Dr. Barkenbus Heard At Pre-Med Meeting

The Eta chapter of Omega Beta Psi, professional pre-medical fraternity, held a smoker Monday night, February 25, in the Science building. Dr. Barkenbus, of the chemistry department, delivered an instructive and entertaining message on "Chemistry and Medicine."

At the conclusion of the address, a novel meet was held in which all present participated. The team captained by Jerry Adkins was declared the winner over Harmon Backs' proteges by the score of 41 to 40. The victors were then rewarded for their efforts by being served delicious hot dogs and "pop" by the vanquished.

MINER TO PUBLISH BOOK

Dr. J. B. Miner, head of the psychology department, recently completed a translation into English of a work on "Experimental Psychology," by the great French psychologist, Pioner. Dr. Miner has signed a contract with a firm of English publishers, who have offices in London, for the publication of the book which will come off the press about April 1. Dr. Miner is on a sabbatical leave in Europe at the present time, but he will return to the University next fall.

NOTED SPEAKER HEARD BY CLUB

Famous Lecturer and Linguist Talks in French Before Circle Francais at Patterson Hall Tuesday.

M. de Lanux, of Paris, France, noted lecturer and linguist, gave an interesting lecture in French, Tuesday at 3 o'clock in the lecture room at McVey hall, before the members of the Circle Francais, the students of University French department and numerous representatives of various departments of French in Lexington and throughout central Kentucky. Professor Zembrod, head of the romance language department, introduced the speaker.

In his speech, M. de Lanux stressed the importance of knowing the French language since in practically all parts of Europe this tongue is spoken. He also said "the essential thing for the American in studying a foreign language is to learn the grammar and syntax. With a good knowledge of this it is not difficult to speak the language, after being associated with the people of foreign countries."

M. de Lanux was later the guest at a tea given in his honor immediately after the lecture, at which time the members of the Circle Francais were hostesses.

The International Relations Club honored M. de Lanux at a dinner given Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock in the cafeteria at McVey hall. After the dinner M. de Lanux gave a short address, followed by an informal discussion on international relations. M. de Lanux said "the most notable thing of the present time, in my opinion, is the progress made by the people of the many countries toward better understanding and better international relations."

The French visitor has been prominent in international affairs since 1923, when he organized the executive committee of the League of Nations. Since 1924 he has been director of the Paris information office of the League of Nations.

DEAN RECEIVES PAPER

A pamphlet entitled "Younger College Men on Westinghouse Jobs" was received by Dean F. Paul Anderson, of the College of Engineering, Tuesday. A picture of R. M. Davis, a graduate of the College of Engineering in the class of 1928, is published in the paper.

Ollie J. Bowen Is Representative In Oratorical Meet

BRIDGE TOURNAMENT SUGGESTED BY WRITER

partner out with suggestions.

6. Feel free to criticize your partner. He will do much as a result of your scoldings.

7. Always trump your partner's tricks. Never take a chance.

8. Disagree with established rules. People will know that you are broad-minded.

9. Eat caramels or some other adhesive candy while playing. This will prevent the cards from skidding.

10. If it is a money game, always stop when you are ahead. It will leave a lasting impression and the folks will remember you.

11. If your partner is one of the "fair sex," and she continually scratches herself, don't become rattled for that is not what she is doing. She is only feeling around for the flimsy little shoulder straps that hold her together.

A fair knowledge of the game of bridge is an essential element of a well-balanced twentieth century college education. Parents wonder what their boy will be when he goes to college. He has a nice baritone voice but he can't memorize a song; he has a fine physique but he can't memorize football signals. Unless he can learn to recall whether a spade is higher than a club, his entire college career is in danger of becoming a complete and dismal failure.

UNIVERSITY LIBRARY BOASTS RARE BOOKS

Collins' "History of Kentucky," printed in 1847; "History of Kentucky" by H. Marshall, printed in 1824, and a very beautifully bound copy of "Daniel Boone," by Timothy Trent, published in 1849.

The modern reader would be much amused by the doctrines and teachings recorded in the "Sacred Roll," which appeared in 1843. The author on the title page calls it "A Holy and Sacred and Divine Roll and Book from the Lord God of Heaven to the Inhabitants of the Earth." "Read and understand, all ye in mortal clay," he admonishes his readers. A unique feature of the book is the testimonials, given by the believers in doctrine.

The ponderous title of the history of North America by the Rev. Mr. Cooper, 1811, reads as follows: History of North America, of the customs, and names and the original inhabitants, the first settlement of the British colonies and the rise and progress from the earliest to the time of the United, Free and Independent States. The type of this book differs from the rest, in that the letter "s" resembles the German "ss" or the English "f."

The library also has a copy of the speeches of Henry Clay edited in 1842 by Richard Chambers; four volumes of the Winterbotham History of America, and a rare copy of "The Navigator," by Z. Cramer. The first edition of The Navigator was printed in 1801. The library copy is an eleventh edition.
